ULSTER'S REPLY CONSIDERED AS THREAT OF WAR

British Proposals Rejected and Further Interview Refused By Craig.

HAS OTHER PLANS

Lloyd George Facing Hardest Diplomatic Problem of His Entire Experience.

London, Nov. 12.—Fresh from the impressive ceremony at Cenotaph, where tens of thousands mourned in common the victims of the great war, the Ulster Cabinet today sent the Prime Minister a reply to the Irish peace proposals equivalent to a new declaration of war against five-sixths of the Irish people.

Not only has Sir James Craig rejected the Government proposals because of his "fundamental principles," but he has informed the British Premier he will not grant him another personal interview, "unless those are withdrawn from the subjects to be discussed."

Sir James promises to provide Mr. Lloyd George with "other and more practicable means for securing peace without infringing the rights of Ulster." These are proposals framed by the Orange Cabinet alone without consulting either the British Cabinet or representatives of the vast majority of the Irish people. As an example of Orange ascendancy in action, this could not be bettered.

Even if the Prime Minister were willing to pass under the Caudine Forks and beseech another interview with the Ulster Premier, that gentleman has indirectly given notice that it would be useless, as the Orange Ministers are separating until the British Cabinet sees fit to offer a fresh basis of agreement.

Sir James is obviously being maneuvered by the "die hards" with a view to securing a tactical advantage when the conservative caucus meets next Thursday. His counter-proposals will doubtless be published there, and used to relieve the Orangemen from all responsibility of refusing peace on any terms. The "die hards" are busily canvassing for support at the caucus, and now claim to have the promise of nearly 100 members.

Andrew Bonar Law is credited with authorship of an irreconcilable article in today's Yorkshire Post, but it is said his physician has forbidden his taking part in any political campaign, even to the extent of appearing at the caucus.

The Cabinet is understood to be solidly behind the Premier, although there is still some vague rumors that Marquis Curzon may resign the Foreign Secretaryship.

The Conservative caucus must vitally influence the situation one way or the other. If the die hards get control it will be tantamount to serving notice on the coalition by the Conservative members to quit. The Premier would then be driven to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country on the Irish peace proposals.

But all the British parties have given Ulster pledges that she will never be "coerced," and the Sinn Fein is as deeply pledged as the rest by the repeated statements of Eamonn de Valera. If Mr. Lloyd George won, as is considered practically certain, and if Ulster still remained obdurate, which on its public form is even more certain, what could be done?

All this time Sinn Fein will have been consolidating their strength in Ireland, and in any case it is inconceivable that war could be levied against a people who have agreed with the British Government on terms of peace. Thus Mr. Lloyd George finds himself confronted with the most formidable political problem that even he, in all his unexampled experience, has encountered.

CELEBRATION COST $30

Arlington County Resident Had Aboard Too Much To Be Steady.

A white man who lives in Arlington county got aboard too much hooch last night in Washington in celebrating Armistice Day and early this morning he was found wandering at the upper end of King street by Policemen Talbot and Nails and according to the policemen he had a pair of iron knucks in his pocket.

It also was testified that he kicked the windshield out of an automobile that conveyed him to police headquarters. He was fined $25 by Mayor Duncan and in addition assessed $5 for the damage done the automobile.

Two men arrested by Sergeant Campbell charged with being drunk in the street forfeited collateral. A man arrested by Sergeant Campbell and Policeman Magner, charged with being drunk in the street, was acquitted. A man arrested by Policeman Magner charged with having the muffler of his auto truck loose was fined $10.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 12.—Virginia, the mother of Presidents holds today the earth of the unknown soldier, sanctified by his glorified death in behalf of the nation and mankind. Upon the soil which the intrepid Robert E. Lee found solace and which his fondest memories bear record, all that was mortal of that unknown warrior was interred with ceremonies never before known in the history of the government. Virginia, as usual played her utmost part. She was chosen to be the birth place and burial ground of the nation's heroes, known and unknown and Arlington of yesterday proved that Virginia is a State and a part of the great commonwealth of nations which forever will remain indelibly imprinted upon the vicissitudes of affajrs so long as history is written.

Never before in the history of the many pageants has the Capital of the Nation witnessed such a pageant as passed up its broad thoroughfare on its way to the national burial grounds. The President of the United States, the members of the Cabinet, Supreme Court, Senate, House and distinguished bodies of veterans of many wars filed by on their way to the final resting place of the unknown hero. Each and everyone was there to pay homage to the unidentified hero laid to rest among the hills of Virginia, to sleep with his comrades in arms, who, had also lost their lives and made the supreme sacrifice in order that the nation might be preserved and civilization for all time should be preserved.

There was a touch of pathos in yesterday's procession in the presence of former President Wilson. Too afflicted to walk in the funeral procession, he saw fit to request that he should be represented in the line of march which followed the caisson bearing the body of the unknown hero to its home. The crowds that had assembled could not forget the solemnity of the occasion. They were enthusiastic in their outbursts for the man, now a wounded soldier, who had done so much to bring about amity between the world and whose acts will form a part of the world's history when the present generation has long since passed away.

Yesterday's function, military in all its aspects, proved conclusively that Wilson is the hero of the thinking people and that, despite his physical condition, he is still and will ever remain the real hero of a majority of human kind. And Wilson felt in body and soul the spirit of the enthusiasm that was made manifest for him during the proceedings of yesterday.

DOLLAR DAY

Next Wednesday, November 16, will be another day—another Dollar Day. This is one proposition on which the merchants and their patrons get together and think alike, as on no other. Dollar Day has become an established institution in Alexandria, and when the announcement of another one is made it means, that the merchants have unearthed more and better bargains than ever before, and that the housewives begin to save out of their household expenses a dime here and a quarter there, to make the total of the dollars they are eager to spend on the coming bargains.

Originally these sales came at the fag end of a season when the merchants wanted to clear their shelves for new fall or winter or summer stocks. Not so now. Brand new fall stocks, staple, all-the-year-round stocks "an' ever' thing" go into the pot.

Next Wednesday, November 16, is the day.

WALSH-WHEELER

Announcement has been made of the marriage in Newport, R. I., on November 7, of Mr. William Stephens Walsh, of this city, and Miss Helen Wheeler, of Newport. The ceremony was performed at St. Joseph's Church, Newport and the officiating clergyman was the Rev. John W. Marren, of St. Joseph's. After a wedding breakfast at the Hotel Bellevue, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left for a wedding tour which included New York, where they were guests at the Prince George Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh are now at home in the Wagar Apartments, this city.

Mr. Walsh has for the past two years been employed at the Naval Torpedo Station here, having been transferred from the Newport Naval Station. It was while employed there that he met his future wife.

Mrs. Walsh is the daughter of the late Frank Mortimer Wheeler, for many years naval and society editor of the Associated Press at Newport. Mr. Wheeler planned and executed what was probably the most famous and spectacular newspaper "scoop" in recent newspaper history, when he sent the first exclusive news of the raid of the German U-boat, the U-53, off Newport in October, 1916, when that submarine attacked and sank a number of British freight steamers, within sight of the residents of Newport. Mr. Wheeler was the only newspaper correspondent to board the submarine, and by doing so secured the newspaper "beat" of the generation, which made him famous.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned by both sides.

The quarters of Major R. P. Howell in X section were completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning, November 7th. The occupants of the house were aroused by the barking of the collie dog outside and found the house in flames. They were forced to escape in their sleeping attire and nothing was saved from the flames. The same morning fire broke out in the orderly room building of Co. C. 13th Engineers, but was controlled before great damage was done.

The Thirteenth Engineers had a prominent part in the military phase of the Armistice day program. The whole regiment was drilled as two companies. Company A going to Arlington for duty as guard at the cemetery exercises, while Company B

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

With the advent of November the first, came the thrills of the hunting season. Numbers of Alexandria's business men leave the toils and cares of the day and steal into the forests nearby to bring back the spoils of their conquests. Dr. F. M. Dillard and Mr. Richard M. Chichester were enthusiastic followers of the rifle, spending nearly a week in the wilds of Spottsylvania county.

"Rosemont," the beautiful country home of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Morgan Smith, near Berryville was the scene last Saturday evening of one of the most brilliant, picturesque and unique masked balls ever given in Clarke County. The entertainment was in honor of the "Rosemont" house guests and more than a hundred Clarke, Frederick and Jefferson people enjoyed the festivities.

The guests were attired in fancy dress and masked, and were received by Dr. and Mrs. Smith. The entertainment was a Hallowe'en festival and the spirit of carnival reigned supreme. The ballroom of the spacious "Rosemont" mansion was opened shortly after the guest arrived and it was a fairyland of color, which together with the costumes of the dancers gave it a touch of the weird, the carnival and the happiness of people enjoying themselves as in the stories of old England. The decorations of the ball room were of orange and black, large yellow chrysanthemums being the only flowers displayed. The polished floors of the spacious hall and ball room reflected the soft glow of the orange shaded lights.

The merry dancers represented clowns, Kukluxes, fairies, gypsies, Turks, Jesters, Mandrins, Pierrots, Pierrettes, Carmens, dominoes, dudes butterflies, army officers, little lassies. One, dressed as a negro politician, who could affect the negro dialect, was a scream, and his quaint negro sayings made laughter almost drown the music at times. The dancers tripped the light fantastic until midnight.

STATE NEWS

Newport News—The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company is going after steel car repair work in an attempt to provide employment for the people of this city during the shipbuilding depression. Fifty Chesapeake & Ohio cars are new being repaired at the yard and the concern is after more work of this kind. Just what it will amount to no one is able to say at this time. The yard is equipped to do the work and there is skilled labor a plenty in the city. The repair work is let on a competitive bidding basis and the Newport News yard hopes to get its full share. It will take many steel cars, however, to afford as much work as there is on a merchant ship or a battleship, and the box car repair business is but a drop in the bucket as compared with a ship contract.

Richmond—Talk is going the rounds that the forthcoming legislature may be asked to rescind its action in providing for the erection of a war memorial library here unless more satisfactory progress is made by the commissions charged with the duty of erecting the building. Just now the municipal authorities of Richmond are insisting upon providsion being made for an auditorium in the buildingg with a seating capacity of at least 4,000 while those engaged in working out the architectural details say that it will not be feasible to equip the building with an auditorium seating more than 500 persons.

Harrisonburg—Prof. W. G. MacGowan, assistant dairy specialist to Blacksburg, is in the city making arrangements for the Holstein Fresian sale next Thursday, which will be held at the fair grounds. The sale is being held under auspices of the Virginia Holstein Fresian Association, of which Frank Walker, of Woodstock, is the president and W. C. Hoover and E. M. Minnick, of Timberville, are members.

Culpeper—A missile, said to have been a bomb, thrown into a Greek restaurant here Wednesday night, set fire to the place and for a while threatened its destruction. The perpetrator of the deed was chased for some distance, but escaped in the darkness. The two proprietors of the place told the police that they had been threatened with "death and destruction" if they did not close their place, and they believe the outrage Wednesday night to be the culmination of the threat.

Winchester—Governor-elect E. Lee Trinkle, of Wytheville, swept into office Tuesday by the largest majority since democrats "rescued" the state from republican domination during the reconstruction days following the civil war, is believed by political observers to have also converted many republicans to the doctrine of democracy, and also to have won large numbers of those voting this year for the first time.

Harrisonburg—Rockingham county has elected two democrats—two of the biggest men physically in the state—former State Senator George B. Keezel and Rev. W. C. Hoover, a minister of the Church of the Brethren, to the House of Delegates. Both are prominent farmers. Senator Keezell is a former chairman of the state board of fisheries and was for years chairman of the finance committee of the senate, Keezell weighs 300 pounds and is six feet six inches in height. Hoover now tips the scales at 375 pounds, having reduced his weight from 425 by dieting.

Suffolk—Thomas Old, a veteran hunter in the Dismal swamp, has found a queer old hand-made spade which he believes to have been one of the tools used by George Washington and his force when the Washington Ditch was being dug. The spade is of heavy old iron, curiously shaped, and weighs twice as much as the ordinary spade of the present day. Marks on the tool indicate that it was used a century or more ago. Mr. Old also found two curiously carved Indian pipes, made of cypress or cedar, and carved with Indian signs.

Richmond—Through a recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, apple dealers in Richmond may now order apples from Washington, or other Western states, consigned to North and South Carolina points, store the same in Richmond to cover the demand of the market and reship the same to destination on the through rate from the point of consignment to the points in the two states mentioned. This ruling will enable Richmond apple merchants to continue on a competitive basis with other points and to bring in apples from the West to cover the shortage caused by the freeze last spring.

Danville—Local republican leaders who had charge of Colonel Anderson's campaign in this section, reacting from the result of Tuesday's election today laid part of the blame on the shoulders of President Harding. They concurred in the belief that irreparable harm had been done at the psychological moment by the national executive's Birmingham speech in which the racial issue was gone into. Many of the republicans did not disguise their sentiments on this point.

PLANS OF MANY ARE SPOILED BY TRAFFIC CRUSH

Distinguished Guests of Nation Compelled To Walk Through Virginia Mud.

PRESIDENT DETOURS

Cabinet Officers Reach Amphitheatre After Climbing Over Hedges and Jumping Stream.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Thousands of men and women and many children who crowded the Capital today—some of them distinguished guests of the nation—failed to participate in the solemn ceremonies incident to the burial of the unknown hero of the World War. They tried desperately, but vainly, to reach Arlington, or, failing in that, to return to the city in time to catch a glimpse of the funeral cortege as it filed slowly and reverently through the heart of the city.

But these thousands were caught as in a vise in the most maddening traffic jam this city has ever experienced. They were literally blockaded for what seemed interminable hours along the single open roadway leading to the national cemetery, or upon the long bridge across the Potomac or upon the approaches to the bridge.

Even officials of the Government and their official guests—scores of them—were either held up or turned back or abandoned their automobiles and trudged through the mud of plowed fields for one or even two miles in order to reach the cemetery gates.

So intense was the jam to the north that an automobile bearing the President himself detoured through a furrowed field, miring at times to the hubs, but finally plowing its way to the head of the line.

Nothing quite like it was ever known here before. While more than 200,000 lined Pennsylvania avenue to pay their note of tribute to the unknown dead, it seemed that half as many turned their faces toward Arlington, and even before the flag-draped casket was lifted from its temporary resting place, under the Capitol dome, miles of automobiles were moving slowly toward Arlington.

Through orders of the War Department only one of the two approaches from the city was left open to the public. The Aqueduct Bridge, which crosses the Potomac at Georgetown, was closed at 8 o'clock to traffic in order to permit the cortege to pass over it undisturbed.

This forced all the vehicular traffic to pass over the lower or long bridge, and by 9 o'clock streams of automobiles were converging at the northern approach to this bridge from every part of the city.

Arriving at the neck of the bottle the cars become jammed. For miles behind them the lines formed. A single soldier, with only one arm, but with a military police insignia banded around it, undertook to regulate the traffic at the entrance to the bridge. He was helpless. Four lines of cars formed to cross the river abreast. They soon jammed also and any forward movement was next to impossible. Seeing the blockade ahead hundreds of cars turned on the Virginia side in the hope of getting back to the city. This resulted in a double line of cars on the bridge, moving or attempting to move in opposite directions, adding to the confusion, to the delay and the desperation on the part of those were felt impelled to be present at the ceremonies.

From 9 o'clock until past noon the jam remained uncontrolled. Finding cars unable to move, hundreds of men and women alighted and walked for miles. Occasionally an official party would be identified and almost by sheer force it would be dragged from the blockade and passed over.

Marshal Foch and his aides were in one car which seemed hopelessly stalled. Finally, by driving the lines into single file momentarily, he was allowed to get through and to reach the amphitheatre in time.

Another car filled with Chinese delegates managed to break through and cross the bridge. Observers were unable to learn what happened to them beyond.

Secretary of State Hughes crossed the bridge after a painful delay, but, quitting his car, struck out across a wheat field afoot. Arriving at a ditch, he paused for an instant, then grasping his silk hat firmly in his hand, jumped for it, landing safely on the other side. Secretary of Commerce Hoover likewise was caught and, climbing two hedges and negotiating another ditch by leaping, succeeded in reaching the cemetery.

EDUCATION WEEK

There is planned an American Education Week from December 4 to 10, under the auspices of the National Education Association and the American Legion, in co-operation with many other organizations, educational, fraternal and civic. Thus far some thirty-five national organizations have pledged themselves to take an active part.

We are glad to see an awakening interest in education all over the country and hope it will not be merely spasmodic. The rather alarming figures as to illiteracy developed in our army came as a shock to most of ous. But it is not enough merely to know how to read and write. A foundation of geography, history, grammar and mathematics is fundamentally necessary to our citizenship. While an acquaintance with the great minds of the human race who tower like mountain-peaks in the vast stretches of Time, is becoming more and more a sine qua non. The cultivation of a taste for reading, we should say, is worth as much to the average High School graduate, as all the other subjects of study combined. By reading good literature the young man and woman can educate themselves even beyond the farthest reaches of a college education. All that high school or college can do is to teach the student to educate himself. Some of the greatest minds of the world have had but limited educational opportunities. But an intimate acquaintance with the Bible, Shakespeare, Milton, Emerson, Carlyle,—to go no further, would give one a liberal education.

We should, indeed, rejoice to see our Alexandria teachers take an interest in American Education Week. By writing to the United States Bureau of Education, or the National Education Association, in Washington, full details may be had. The Virginia State Teachers Association is likewise actively interested, and the division superintendent will doubtless be glad to render assitance. Some participation should be had on the part of Alexandria, and the week should be made especially memorable in this city.

Shubert-Garrick

The greatest of all A. E. F. musical comedy successes, "A Buck on Leave" will be presented at the Shubert-Garrick theatre, Washington, D. C., week of November 14, opening Monday night. This is the play that toured the A. E. F. circuit in France for six months and which played a brilliant engagement at the Theatre des Champs Elysees, Paris during the peace conference.

"A Buck on Leave" was written by Sergt. Patrick Henry Barnes when he was a buck private. He wrote it for the entertainment of the doughboys and it became such an immense success that it was known all over France as "The Winter Garden Show of the A. E. F."

Sergt. Barnes himself will appear at the Shubert-Garrick in his original role of "A Buck", a characterization that has won international fame for him. With him will be a company of one hundred people including Larry Young and Alexander Winslow, members of the original A. E. F. cast, Margaret Shane, former leading lady with Raymond Hitchcock, Susan Freeman, and many other clever singers, dancers, and specialty artists. There will be a large chorus of attractive girls and ex-service men. The play will be elaborately staged.

"A Buck on Leave" will be given under the joint auspices of the Rainbow Division Veterans and Vincent B. Costello Post, The American Legion.

ABOUT THE HOUSE
by R. S.

One may about as well attempt to count the grains of sugar in the sugar bowl as to begin to enumerate salads. Taking for granted that the necessary materials, foundation and salad dressing, are kept always on hand, it will be no effort whatever for the hostess to mix up a tempting salad at the last possible minute. You house-keepers know how prone Friend Husband is to ring up just before luncheon and tell you he is coming home with the unexpected guest!

To make a successful salad, everything about it must be just right, and of the best quality obtainable. But if there are two things about the preparation that must be absolutely right, it is the salad dressing, and the lettuce leaf background which must be so fresh and crisp that you wont have to wrestle with the salad fork.

It is impossible to offer a very complete list of salads at one time, but here are some fundamentals that will be found serviceable in preparation thereof.

Regarding Lettuce

To keep lettuce crisp, wash thoroughly through several waters, ice cold being preferable, drain thoroughly, squeeze a clean napkin or kitchen towel out of ice water, wrap the lettuce within its folds and lay directly upon the ice. This also applies to celery.

To dry lettuce thoroughly without detracting from its crispness, place the washed leaves loosely in a dry kitchen towel, stand on the open porch and shake and toss vigorously in the breeze.

Some salads, such as the Tomato Aspic, previously given, require shredded lettuce. A pair of kitchen scissors will accomplish the work neater than even a sharp knife, and this should be treated to the crisping process as suggested, before garnishing.

There are a number of splendid salad dressings on the market, and it may well to keep a bottle always on the well-stocked pantry shelf. The making of salad dressing in the home kitchen is so simple, however, if certain rules are observed, that a jar may be always ready in the ice chest for immediate use. Some families object to the taste of oil in the mayonnaise, so I am giving first a receipt for a boiled dressing that will be found to answer every purpose.

Boiled Salad Dressing

One-half cup sugar, 1 heaping tablespoonful flour, 1 teaspoonful dry mustard, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 saltspoonful pepper, 1 pinch cayenne. Mix dry ingredients, then moisten with one-half cup cream. Beat into this, one at a time, the whole or five eggs, or the yolks of eleven (left from an angel-food baking). Have ready in the double boiler two-thirds cup of good sour vinegar ,two-thirds cup of cold water, and when boiling vigorously stir in the mixture and cook until thick. To insure that creamy consistency, beat with wire egg beater. This will fill a quart jar, and a small quantity may be thinned with cream at each using.

For the solid, bleached head of lettuce, quartered, there is no dressing than can impart the tang for an appetizer like French dressing, made by mixing two parts vinegar to one of pure olive oil, and adding paprika sufficient to give it zest.

In the making of mayonnaise, the utmost care must be taken in having everything in and connected with its blending, stone cold. To begin with, it should be mixed in a cool room, in a bowl and with a spoon that has just been taken from the ice chest. The eggs, oil and vinegar should all be thoroughly chilled. Mayonnaise has been known to go back to oil because the spoon has been too warm. The proportions are, the yolks of two eggs to one pint of oil. Place the yolks in bowl, free from all trace of white, and remove germ. Stir a minute or two, season with salt, a teaspoonful best dry mustard, and a pinch of white pepper, Mix thoroughly. Hold pitcher of oil in left hand and drop while stirring, a drop at a time until the dressing begins to thicken. Then pour in slowly a little vinegar which should be very strong in order to produce the proper acidity without thinning too much. As the egg is merely the foundation, continue to stir in oil and vinegar until the proper consistency and amount is obtained.

Delicate green mayonnaise, so much desired to enchance the color scheme of special luncheon or party, is made by dropping a bunch of parsley into boiling water for a minute or two, pound in a mortar, then run through a fine seive and use the pulp for obtaining the desired tint.

Norwegian sauce is made by adding freshly grated horseradish to mayonnaise in the proportion of two tablespoonsful to half a pint.

Elmer Ellsworth Fields, who departed this life one year ago today, November 12th., 1920.

So sad and sudden was the call,
Dear Brother, your death surprised us all, but perhaps some day we shall understand when we meet you in a better land.
The happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
As long as life and memory last
We will always think of you.
Sleep on Dear Uncle and take your rest;

God called you home; He thought it best
From sin and sorrow set you free
May we prepare to follow thee.

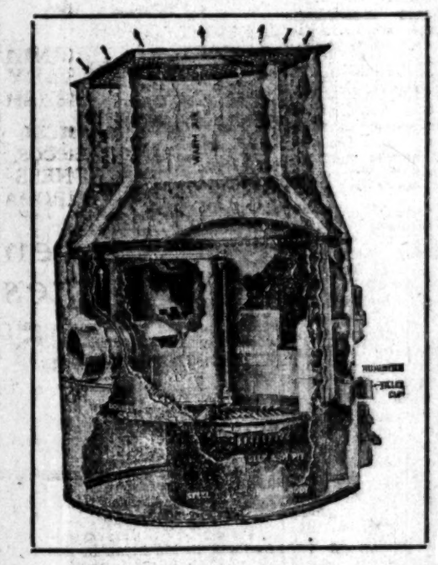
SOME morning this winter your family will face that reality. Will you be ready for it? Don't forget the dangers and discomforts of last winter. Don't put off the selection of a new heating plant for your home too long. Don't go through another winter without the cozy comfort of "QUAKER" Heat.



Now is the best time to prepare your house for the damp, chill winds and the cold days that are sure to come. If you install a QUAKER FURNACE now, you'll not mind the time when "there's a blizzard on the way" because

"Quaker" Heat is Quicker Heat

"The Pipeless Furnace That's Built of Steel"

The Quaker Furnace is built of steel, which radiates heat three times as fast as cast iron. Yet the Quaker holds the heat longer because the firepot is lined with FIRE BRICK like the crucible of a blast furnace.

Quaker Heat is cleaner heat, too. The joints are riveted like a boiler. No cement to crack and crumble. Soot, ashes, dust and dirt positively cannot leak through. The hotter the furnace gets the tighter the joints become.

OTHER IMPORTANT FEATURES

The Quaker has an extra large water pan (with handy outside filler) which keeps the air moist and healthful. The firepot can't crack. The combustion chamber is extra large. The special hot blast saves fuel. Doors are ground EXACTLY to give perfect air-tight fit. Free catalog tells all about these and other Quaker improvements Send for it today.

Quaker Steel Pipeless Furnaces are easily installed in old or new homes. Only one register required. Made with 18, 22, 26, and 28 inch firepots. Delivered quickly from nearest wearhouse. Send for free catalog.

Stella Talks Concerning Starfish.

STELLA had just told her Brownies about the little Sea Horse upon whose back Pearl rides through the ocean and of the Flying Fish who carries her when she wants to go a-travelling through the air.

Pearl, as you know, is the Fairy at the End-of-the-Sea, and she is a cousin of Stella's—a beautiful Mermaid Sea Fairy.

The Brownies knew about her lovely home down in the depths of the water, surrounded by waving ocean plants. They knew that she sleeps on a soft sponge and fans herself with a Sea Fan and that on her forehead she wears a teeny weeny Starfish; but they were not at all sure just what a Starfish is, so, as it was story telling time at the End-of-the-Earth, they asked the Wishing Fairy about it.

"I wear on my head a little star that fell from the sky," Stella began. "There were two of them, and the other I have on my magic wand; but Pearl wears a cunning little Starfish in her hair because they are perfectly at home in the water—in fact that is where Starfish live."

"We know all that!" Pimzie exclaimed impatiently; "we want to hear about the regular ones that wander around the ocean. How big are they?"

"They are all sizes," Stella answered; "from half an inch to several feet across; but I shall tell you about the common Starfish. Usually it is several inches in width and is a light brown color, while it is covered by a very hard and brittle shell.

"It has five long points, and if one is broken off it has the power of growing a new one in its place. It does this even if several are broken off."

"Just the way Crabs and Lobsters grow new claws and legs!" Sneokums exclaimed excitedly.

"Exactly," cried Stella. "The Starfish also breathes water with these points or arms, which it has already drawn through a little opening on one side of the centre of its back, and at the end of each one is an eye—one for each arm."

"How queer that must seem!" Kinkajou remarked. "I wouldn't like to have my eyes on my arms a bit."

"If you should turn a Starfish over on its back you would see that all along the under side of each arm are hundreds of little feelers. On the tip of each one is a tiny sucker by which it clings to things. It also walks with them."

"What do they eat?" Of course this question came from greedy Lorykins.

"Other smaller ocean animals or even refuse; but they especially like oysters."

"Oysters!" Pimzie cried in amazement. "How can they ever manage to get through an oyster's shell?"

"They do it by having a long and terrific fight with it. A Starfish attaches itself to both the lower and upper shell of an oyster and begins tugging and pulling with all its strength. This is where the fight begins, and it lasts an awfully long time. The more the Starfish tries to pull the Oyster's shell apart the tighter the Oyster shuts itself up. It cannot stand the strain as long as the Starfish can and the moment its shell opens the slightest bit the Starfish plunges its stomach down through the crack, devours and digests the poor oyster then and there. Then the Starfish draws its stomach back through its mouth and goes searching for more food."

The Fairy laughed at the four mystified little faces before her, for they couldn't understand this kind of stomach! She thought she would explain about it.

"The Starfish's mouth opens directly into its stomach, which is in the middle of its five arms—underneath, of course. Here is a picture of a Starfish. Do you see the little round spot near the middle of its back? That is the little opening through which it draws in water, for it breathes the oxygen in the water."

OCCOQUAN NEWS

Master Louis Gardner was the victim of a very serious accident last Sunday morning. While playing with a buzz saw he received a cut on his hand. He was rushed to the hospital where he received first aid treatment. Several stitches had to be taken, but at this writing he is able to be out again with his hand in a cast.

Miss Brice Selecman entertained last Saturday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Evelyn Bithings, of George Georgetown. The numerous guests of the evening were attired in mask costumes which were, toward the close of the evening, removed, and the guests played at games until a late hour. The Hostess served delightful refreshments at the close of the entertainment.

Mr. Kenyon Davis, who is attending Higgh School in Washington, spent the past week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Heynard Davis, in this place.

Miss Mary Carter, Miss Virginia Carter and Miss Minnie Berry spent the past week-end with friends in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Tyres entertained the Senior Epworth League last Friday evening in their home. After the regular business session was concluded an hour was pleasantly spent in a social session at the end of which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet this evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Isurd Beach, to complete plans for its annual oyster supper and Bazaar, which will be held on the evening of November 17, in the Odd Fellows Hall. The proceeds will go to the new Methodist Church, which is now under construction.

CARD OF THANKS.

Having practically recovered from the effects of my trying experience on the night of November 3rd, Iwish to return my sincere thanks to the many good people in Alexandria who showed me their sympathy on this occasion. I thank all those who inquired about me and also those whose kind wishes and prayers may not have been brought to my notice. I will ever cherish the memory of all the kindness that was shown to me and I will at all times deem it a pleasant duty to render service to anyone in Alexandria.

Very sincerely,
Louis Smet,

SYMPTOMS WOMEN DREAD

Mrs. Wilson's Letter Should Be Read by All Women

Clearfield, Pa.—"After my last child was born last September I was unable to do all of my own work. I had severe pains in my left side every month and had fever and sick dizzy spells and such pains during my periods, which lasted two weeks. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing others so much good and thought I would give it a trial. I have been very glad that I did, for now I feel much stronger and do all of my work. I tell my friends when they ask me what helped me, and they think it must be a grand medicine. And it is. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HARRY A. WILSON, R. F. D. 5, Clearfield, Pa.

The experience and testimony of such women as Mrs. Wilson prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct such troubles by removing the cause and restoring the system to a healthy normal condition. When such symptoms develop as backaches, bearing-down pains, displacements, nervousness and "the blues" a woman cannot act too promptly in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she values her future comfort and happiness.

SATURDAY, NOV. 13, 1813.

Washington City, Nov. 10. The 36th regiment of infantry lately encamped near this city have marched. Captain Joseph Hook's company to garrison Fort Washington on the Potomac; Captain Merrick and Dencales companies, of one 100 men, to garrison Forts Madison and Severn; the residue of the 36 regiment, under command of Colonel Carberry, to winter quarters at Fredericktown Barracks.

Near a thousand men of those regiments have been encamped within a mile of the Capitol, since the first day of September, and in that time ONLY FOUR MEN HAVE DIED.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE STREET
By The Man About Town

"The Romans considered thirteen an unlucky number," muttered the young fellow who had been toying with the galloping dominoes, "but two sixes is a darned sight unluckier than the baker's dozen when you get tangled up in a game of chance,"

"We have forgotten how to eat," volunteered the M. D. "We no longer spend sufficient time at the table. Talk is one of the best digesters known to science. No tonic can beat it if it is the kind to promote hilarity and good feeling generally. Our forefathers who gathered around Gadsby's well filled board managed things differently. My grandfather used to tell of those dinners. And he never had chronic indigestion in his life. We travel too fast, eat too fast, read too fast—"

"And die too fast," added the Man About Town.

"That is no idle jest, either. Grandfather lived to be ninety-three, father passed three score years and ten, and I may live to be sixty—if I'm lucky."

"Here's hoping!" chuckled the Man About Town as he hurried home to lunch.

Friday night, about half an hour before midnight, a very respectable gentleman, living on St. Asaph street, fumbled with his latchkey as he stood on his porch. Some one inside the house pulled the door open with a jerk and a feminine voice sharply inquired: "Isn't this a fine state of affairs—you not home since morning?"

"Softly, darling, softly," he replied. "I've just got back from Pimlico. I won five hundred and—"

"Come right in the house, dear, before you catch your death of cold," she purred in liquid tones. The door slammed shut and the observer passed on. But don't it make a difference? Oh, Boy, suppose he'd LOST.

While sojourning in southern Maryland, the past summer, the Man About Town visited some colonial homesteads of ancient lineage. Many paintings, etchings and letters of undoubted historic value are still retained in these old families. Here and there in our notes jotted down hurriedly, we find items which are of local interest. A copy of a letter from this city dated 1768, says in part: "The streets are busy day and night with the comings and goings of the many coaches ,all the loungers of the city gathering at the taverns to witness these lively scenes. The driver takes great pride in his importance, and cracking his whip brings up his four-in-hand at full speed, in most magnificent manner before the door, where the smiling host, stands hat in hand to receive the weary traveler."

Little more than one hundred years has passed since that letter was written. Today we counted three seaplanes driven through the air with startling speed, circling over the city. Hundreds of motor cars tear along the highways. Express trains come and go. Electric cars hum on their way to the Capital City, the city which was little more than a swamp when that letter was penned. In the words of the cornfield darkey "De world do move."

"Why is it," asked a prominent resident, "that Alexandria is so far behind other Virginia cities in educational matters? You know I have sent three boys to the University of Virginia. Every one of them graduated from our High School. Graduates from other high schools in the state are admitted into the University on their graduation certificates. Every one of my boys had to stand an examination. Alexandria is not on the eligible list, simply because her schools do not come up to the requirements established by the State University. Is it fair to me as a taxpayer to let such condition continue to exist? If additional taxes are needed to put our schools on a sound educational basis let us call an election and vote the necessary increase. It is time for us to stop talking and do something."

Canada alone expended $17,000,000 upon musical instruments and materials during the year of 1919, according to a Government statistical report published in the Winnipeg Tribune. Our own expenditures along the same line are probably four times as great. Music has become a part of our national life. To extend the demand for the best music should be the aim now. One of the best ways, and certainly the surest is to begin with the children. Music should be taught in the schools, but of far more importance than making every child capable of playing, is to make every child capable of understanding and desiring the best music. The child's education is being neglected if this isn't done. It is your child, Mr. Taxpayer.

"Does it pay to advertise?" asked a prospective customer of an advertising solicitor, "Sometimes I doubt it very much. Once I actually advertised three-dollar umbrellas for fifty cents and no one bought them. I don't want to waste my money—"

"Listen to me, Mr. Man! It takes salesmanship to sell goods. Advertising is salesmanship. 'It pays to advertise,' only when the printed matter accurately and honestly describes the goods you offer for sale. Advertising which does that, gets the business. You have to make good. Some merchants assume that once they get the customer into their store that they can sell goods. That is possible only when the advertised goods actually conform in quality and cost with your salesmanship letter. For after all that is what your advertisement amounts to." The advertising solicitor paused to catch his breath.

"Hold on. Let me have that copy. Come in and get it in an hour from now," exclaimed the merchant, "I'm going to dress that SALESMAN up in decent clothes. And if he isn't honest I'm going to fire him."

A Strong Bond Market

The rapidity with which certain new issues of bonds have been oversubscribed, and the fact that interest rates have shown, during the past few months, a decided tendency toward lower levels, can be taken as evidence of the trend of the bond market.

While bond prices are still low we recommend the purchase of those kinds of bonds that are recognized as the safest, as we believe that the investment demand will center on such issues for months to come.

We have selected for your consideration a list of secured mortgage bonds, essentially Southern, yielding 7 to 7 per cent.

Write for circular if you are interested in what the South can offer.

BLOODY MARY LIVES AGAIN IN FILM PLAY "JUDGMENT"
PRODUCED FROM VICTOR HUGO'S DRAMA
What is said to be one of the most spectacular and dramatic motion pictures ever offered the public will be seen at Moore's Rialto Theatre next week. It is a photoplay version of a drama by Victor Hugo, and bears the interest-compelling title, "Judgment."
The story deals with those grim days in Sixteenth Century England, when Mary Tudor sat upon the throne.
It is said that "Judgment" is a production not alone of stupendous scenes, huge ensembles, superior acting and beautiful photographic effects, but that it has, as well, one of the most intensely dramatic plots ever told upon the screen.
Frank Tinney at Poli's
The attraction next week at Poli's will be the smashing Broadway Tenstripe, Frank Tinney in "Tickle Me." Arthur Hammerstein is bringing his entire New York Cast to Washington for the production of this big musical comedy.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Braving the elements that throughout the day had made the roads practically impassible, the local council of the Knights of Columbus in goodly numbers proceeded to Falls Church last Wednesday evening, where the bi-monthly meeting was held. The members, despite the weather, had a most enjoyable time, and the talk of Father Van Inglem about little incidents connected with his country missions proved very interesting. The ladies of Falls Church were on hand, again proffering an abundance of delicious cakes, together with other things that helped to make these cakes the more enjoyable.

The entertainment committee is pleased to state that the Rev. Dr. Register, of the Methodist Church, will address our council on January 20 on the "Life of Robert E. Lee." The kindness of Dr. Register in promising to be with us on the evening of January 20 is helping us to attain that ideal of good fellowship among the members of the different creeds in our city, and it goes without saying that Dr. Register holds in store for our members an evening of real interest when he will tell us about the great Southern patriot.

W. B. A. OF THE MACCABEES.

The Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees, the local review of which meets on the first and third Tuesday's of each month at Odd Fellow's Hall, is the strongest fraternal benefit society in the world composed exclusively of women. This order consists of 2,600 reviews with a total membership of over 260,000. In addition to its regular insurance protection feature, the order also maintains a hospital service fund to care for needy sick members. The social side of the order, however, is not neglected. Uniformity of ritual work is maintained by ritualistic forms and ceremonies, beautiful and impressive in character. The W. B. A. ritual is distinguished by its military guard work. A beautiful ritual is also provided for the Juniors, composed of members under 16 years of age. Each local review elects its own officers and conducts its own affairs in accordance with with the laws of the association.

(This column will be published each week on Saturday, and is open to all Fraternal Orders of the city. Contributions should be sent to the Fraternal Editor so as to reach this office not later than nine o'clock Friday morning—Editor.)

CAMP HUMPHRIES NOTES.

was stationed at the Capitol in Washington as guard for the body of the unknown and unidentified soldier lying in state there. Captain William V. Hill is in command of Co. A, and Captain Clarence L. Adcock of Company B.

Major General Lansing Beach, Chief of the Corps of Engineers and Mrs. Beach were week-end guests of Colonel and Mrs. James A. Woodruff. They were present at the hunting breakfast that was served at the officer's club after the "Paper Chase" Sunday morning, November 6th. On the chase Major C. F. Williams and Colonel Woodruff were foxes. Capt. Arthur E. Brown, D. C., was the winner. Unfortunately the horse ridden by Captain Thomas F. Farrell fell fracturingg the captain's ankle.

There were five tables at Mrs. Woodruff's bridge party on Friday evening, November 4th. Mrs. C. P. Gross and Mrs. W. H. Waugh were the winners of the prizes. Mrs. C. F. Williams and Mrs. William Henry Holcomb assisted in the dining room.

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. A. M. Madison, 323 North Royal St., Alexandria, says: "I was so bad off with kidney complaint I had to go to bed. My back hurt me as though I were being pierced with a knife. I couldn't turn from one side to the other, but was just helpless. When I was able to get up around at all, I had to have help to do everything. I couldn't even lace my own shoes, and I was so nervous my hand would shake like a leaf when I tried to hold anything. The way my kidneys acted showed they were in bad shape. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Creighton's Drug Store and I was certainly filled with joy before I had used them very long. The misery left me and I felt like myself again."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Madison had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blinded ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 19 have gone on to other institutions, in almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special text-books in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute.

Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition, 14 are receiving further "training on the job" and 87 are still in training.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

SyracO
SELF REGULATING-HOT WATER
GARAGE HEATING SYSTEM

SyracO regulation is controlled by the temperature of the water, not by the expansion and contraction of the water in the system. Thus the complicated and troublesome necessity of maintaining an even water level is permanently eliminated. Once the thermostat weight is set for the desired water temperature, SyracO regulation requires no further attention for the entire season.

$98—One-Car SyracO Complete—$98

F. O. B. Factory

The One-Car SyracO consists of an all castiron boiler with thermostat regulator, damper control thermometer, expansion tank, all pipes and fittings and an all cast-iron hospital design wall radiator, 15 inches by 66 inches.

There's a SyracO for Every Garage

SyracO burns either hard or soft coal. It's patented, trouble-proof temperature control regulates the consumption of fuel and eliminates the necessity of constant attention—an efficient and economical heating system for garages from one to twenty car capacity.
